ONE STEP TOWARDS CLEANLINESS

INTRODUCTION

The world we live in today is deteriorating by the day. Global warming, ozone depletion, poor waste management, and pollution are the major causes for it. Unless we take steps quickly to reverse this, there isn't going to be a planet earth for future generation.

The one issue that we can handle without any external help is waste management and waste reduction. To begin with, keeping our immediate surroundings clean should be the primary target. Indian cities have many dustbins placed at regular intervals. But there is always more garbage surrounding the bin than inside it. Why are the citizens so apathetic? Is it not the duty of every person to ensure he keeps his city clean?

If we do not work as individuals separately to tackle this issue, there is no way we can work as a team to reverse global warming or ozone depletion.

SUMMARY

CONCLUSION

Living in a community imposes on us certain responsibilities. Keeping your city clean is one among them. It is the duty of each and every person to ensure that his surroundings are hygienic. It is a social responsibility to ensure that the environment is preserved and living conditions are sustained through the years. It is only this, which can be passed on to the future generations. Giving back to the society- this is where it begins. Keep your surroundings clean.
