Temporomandibular joint disorder (TMD) is a group of conditions affecting the jaw joint, muscles, and associated nerves, often causing pain, restricted movement, and functional difficulties. The treatment of temporomandibular joint disorders and associated orofacial pain has always been an enigma to the dentist. The Pierre Fauchard Academy in collaboration with MGM Dental College and Hospital has organized this workshop on Orofacial Pain and TMD with the intention to provide an insight into the diagnosis and treatment of the TMD keeping in mind the newer perspectives toward the treatment.
